On the Road with Kalidasa: Countries, Cities and Sacred Places

About the Book

This book uses the perspectives of humanistic geography and classical philology to explore the representation of space in K?lid?sa's works. It identifies three spatial levels – macro, mezzo and micro – reflecting the focaliser's movement within the narratives. Readers of this book are invited to embark on an imaginary journey to K?lid?sa's world, where places from his time and his imagination are revealed simultaneously. This journey provides an opportunity to accompany Raghu on his conquest of the Earth, sit beside R?ma in his aerial car, and to fly with the Cloud Messenger to discover K?lid?sa's vision of harmony between civilisation and nature.
