Mughal Wall Painting

About the Book

This chronicle of the wall painting tradition under the patronage of Mughals and their contemporaries in Rajasthan, Central India and Deccan focuses on a refreshingly new aspect of Indian art history. Divided into 9 Chapters the text revolves around an analytical study of all the major examples out of which 243 illustrations form a cardinal segment of this ground-breaking volume. An eminent scholar of Mughal art and culture, Asok Kumar Das has dealt the subject with great insight, combining a wealth of evidences from the primary sources of history and interpretation of stylistic evolution of the wall painting technique based on extensive field-work research data.
